Notice: The Platteville Dairy Days parade is run as a fun, entertaining, and family-oriented event. It is not meant as a forum for individuals and groups wishing to make political statements. As such, the Dairy Days committee reserves the right to refuse entry into the parade any unit which it deems objectionable because of any type of non-family graphic or vocal representation. Units having live animals walking on the street are encouraged, but for the convenience of marching bands in competition, those animals will be placed in the parade after the last band.

Competition is important for the high school bands and, as such, no interference in their performance is allowed by other units.

No alcoholic beverages are to be consumed in the parade

The throwing of candy or other objects from parade units to bystanders is strictly forbidden for safety reasons. Persons may walk along side of the curb and hand out items, but do so at their own risk. Any parade unit disobeying this safety rule will be asked to stop and/or be pulled from the parade.
